

Bottom Row (Left to Right) - Faagre, Clayton, Mason, Campbell, Frost, Libbe, Wood
 Middle Row - Partridge, Nixon, Arnason, J. C. Wells, Mattson, Walrud, G. Madison
 Top Row - Guthrie, Brunner, Leiberlich, Reed, Hudson, Talbot.

S. T. O. HIGH

Fall
 Richard Forest
 James Campbell
 Howard Libbe
 Bob Wood

Officers
 President
 Vice President
 Treasurer
 Secretary
 Adviser - J. C. Wells

Spring
 James Campbell
 John Mason
 John Faagre
 Charles Clayton

"Books, books, old books!" We buy and sell! This is the cry of the smiling book-sellers in the little room at the foot of stairway number one. A placard above the door bears the inscription: Second Hand Book Room - Operated by the S. T. O.

"S. T. O.?" reads a seventh grade boy and he proceeds to find out for himself the meaning of those three seemingly magic letters which he has heard spoken so many times since his introduction to Washburn. A "W" wearer behind the desk tells him that the letters mean Service To Others.

One of the many services to others that the S. T. O. performed was the publication of that little blue book, the Washburn Handbook. This is, in truth, a pocket-size encyclopedia containing important facts about Washburn High School.

Sincerity is the keynote of their aim and personality is the expression of it. The members of the S. T. O. are loyal to their group. This loyalty they express by actions rather than in words.

